

When You Are Complimented, a Simple Thank You is a Sufficient Response.

39

If someone compliments you about something, you need not go into a lengthy explanation by saying, “Well, it was nothing. I just happened to be there at that particular time, and I had the opportunity that no one else had and really had nothing else to do anyway, so I went ahead and did it.”

Sometimes when people are complimented, they even say, “Oh, I know you don’t mean that! That’s not true,” and on and on and on.

However, a simple thank you is a sufficient response. Don’t go into a lengthy discourse and try to appear overly modest or humble.
